MAAL 6033
LANGUAGE EDUCATION IN CHINA
COURSE OUTLINE 2012-2013

LECTURER
Dr. Clarence Wang

OVERVIEW
The purpose of the module is to introduce macro language planning concerns as well as more micro individual learner experience in China.

OBJECTIVES
The aims of this module are:

• to introduce the various language policies in China and how they have been experienced;
• to encourage participants to think critically about how they can apply this knowledge to defining research questions in this area or facilitating the language learning of learners from China.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES
By the end of the module, participants should be able to:

• read critically research literature on language education in China.
• articulate their understanding of issues related to language education in China.
• consider how to apply their knowledge to language education circumstances around them.

ASSIGNMENT
Participants will be expected to write a research paper. A full description of the assignment will be included in the outline distributed when the module begins.
